

ANNUAL SCHOOL EVALUATION
Abingdon Elementary School
2011-2012

Abingdon Elementary School goals for 2011-2012 were to increase student achievement in writing, student involvement in activities and improve teacher quality.

Abingdon Elementary School was successful in meeting all of their goals for 2011-2012. Writing scores improved from the previous year from 90% pass rate to 98% pass rate in grade five. It is apparent through the many opportunities for school and community involvement that not only were students more involved with the school but parents and community were more involved through better communication processes and programs offered. Students were given more opportunities for volunteering and participating in more school sponsored functions including new club activities such as the Lego League. Teachers also took part in more Professional Development activities including book reads and discussions during regular faculty meetings. The year's book study was Choice Words, by Peter Johnson.

In addition to the successes of their stated goals Abingdon Elementary is to be commended for meeting accreditation standards and FAMO requirements for the year. Their goals for 2012-2013 are to increase student achievement in math, continue to improve opportunities for student activities and to improve teacher quality and teaching techniques.
